

Special Issue: Social policy and religion

Information about authors		271-272
Introduction to the Special Issue on social policy and religion	Peter Saunders and Minako Sakai	273-279
Religious diversity and social policy: an Australian dilemma	Gary Bouma	281-295
Reinforcing substantive religious inequality: a critical analysis of submissions to the Review of Freedom of Religion and Belief in Australia Inquiry	Jacqueline K. Nelson, Alpha Possamai-Inesedy and Kevin M. Dunn	297-318
The influence of faith-based organisations on Australian social policy	Brian Howe and Renate Howe	319-333
Religiosity, citizenship and attitudes to social policy issues	Peter Saunders	335-352
Anticipating modernity: the Jewish 'welfare state' in biblical and medieval times	Allan Borowski	353-372
Building a partnership for social service delivery in Indonesia: State and faith-based organisations	Minako Sakai	373-388
Faith-based organisations and social policy in Melanesia	Graham Hassall	389-406
Islamisation and activism of a Muslim NGO in Pakistan: Jama'at-ud-Da'wa as a case study	Samina Yasmeen	407-424
Notes for contributors		425-429

Information about authors

Allan Borowski is Professor of Social Work and Social Policy at La Trobe University, Melbourne campus. His research interests include the social, economic and political impacts of both population ageing and international population movements.

Gary Bouma AM is the UNESCO Chair in Intercultural and Interreligious Relations – Asia Pacific and Emeritus Professor of Sociology at Monash University. He is President of the Australian Association for the Study of Religions. He was Chair of the Board of Directors for The Parliament of the World's Religions 2009. His research focuses on the management of religious diversity.

Kevin Dunn is Dean of Social Sciences and Psychology and Professor of Human Geography at the University of Western Sydney. He is Vice President and Fellow of the Geographical Society of New South Wales. His areas of research include anti-racism, immigration and settlement, and Muslims in Australia.

Graham Hassall is an Associate Professor in Public Policy and Public Management in the School of Government at the Victoria University of Wellington. His academic interests focus on governance and public policy in the Pacific Islands as well as on global governance and global public policy.

Brian Howe is a Professorial Associate at the Centre for Public Policy at Melbourne University. He researches Australian social policy, including its history.

Renate Howe is Honorary Associate Professor at Deakin University and a member of the Alfred Deakin Research Institute. Her current research interests include social policy and planning and urban policy, especially related to heritage issues.

Jacqueline Nelson is Senior Research Officer at the University of Western Sydney and a contributor to the Challenging Racism Project. Her research interests include anti-racism, multiculturalism, discrimination in housing and employment, and bystander anti-racism.

Alpha Possamai-Inesedy is Senior-Lecturer in Sociology at the University of Western Sydney. She is the editor-in-chief of the Journal of Sociology (2013-2016) as well as the co-creator of the Risk Societies Thematic Group within the Australian Sociological Association. Alpha is currently involved in ongoing research that focuses on risk society, religion, spirituality and methodologies.

Minako Sakai is Senior Lecturer and Program Coordinator of Southeast Asian Social Inquiry in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences at the University of New South Wales, Canberra. Her current research interests include Islamic propagation and social activism and the role of faith-based organisations in delivering social services and disaster relief in contemporary Indonesia.

Peter Saunders is Research Professor in Social Policy in the Social Policy Research Centre at the University of New South Wales. His research interests include poverty and deprivation, income distribution and social inequality, the design and impact of social security and comparative social policy.

Samina Yasmeen is Professor and Director of the Centre for Muslim States and Societies and Professor of Political Science and International Relations in the School of Social Sciences at the University of Western Australia. Her research interests include the role of militant Islamic groups in Pakistan, women and jihad, and Muslim minority citizens in Australia.