Paternalism in Australian welfare policy
Mestan

Inheritance taxes in Australia: a matter of indifference, not taboo
Gilding and Glezos

The impact of the Victorian infringements system on disadvantaged groups: findings from a qualitative study
Saunders, Landsell, Eriksson and Brown

Place-defending and the denial of racism
Nelson

Working with children checks — time to step back?
Tilbury
AJSI is a fully peer reviewed journal, indexed in the Social Sciences Citation Index (SSCI), ISI Thomson Scientific Index and by the Australian Public Affairs Information Service (APAIS). All editorial matters should be directed to: ajsi@aspa.org.au

Publisher
The Australian Journal of Social Issues is published by the Australian Social Policy Association (ASPA). Subscriptions enquiries should be directed to publications@aspa.org.au.

Volumes 1-45 of the Journal were published by the Australian Council of Social Service (ACOSS). Volume 46 and volume 47, numbers 1 and 2, were published by ACOSS in collaboration with ASPA.

Copyright
This publication is copyright. Apart from fair dealing for the purpose of private study, research, criticism, or review, as permitted under the Copyright Act, persons and organisations wanting to reproduce material may obtain written permission from the publisher. Enquiries should be addressed to publications@aspa.org.au.

ISSN 0157-6321

The Australian Social Policy Association (ASPA) is a non-profit organisation and professional association of social policy researchers, educators, practitioners and policy-makers. ASPA promotes debate and increased understanding of social policy in Australia, and productive collaborations between those working and researching in social policy locally, across the Asia-Pacific region and internationally.

The Association provides its members with access to:
- publications,
- seminars,
- workshops and conferences,
- cross-sectoral networking opportunities,
- higher degree research forums and networks.

ASPA seeks to support the community of social policy researchers and policy makers in their efforts to understand and contribute to the promotion of human well-being.

Australian Social Policy Association
Email: enquiries@aspa.org.au
Web: www.aspa.org.au

The Association provides its members with access to:
- publications,
- seminars,
- workshops and conferences,
- cross-sectoral networking opportunities,
- higher degree research forums and networks.

ASPA seeks to support the community of social policy researchers and policy makers in their efforts to understand and contribute to the promotion of human well-being.

Australian Social Policy Association
Email: enquiries@aspa.org.au
Web: www.aspa.org.au
Paternalism in Australian welfare policy
Kemran Mestan
3-22

Inheritance taxes in Australia: a matter of indifference, not taboo
Michael Gilding and Lee Glezos
23-43

The impact of the Victorian infringements system on disadvantaged groups: findings from a qualitative study
Bernadette Saunders, Gaye Lansdell, Anna Eriksson and Meredith Brown
45-66

Place-defending and the denial of racism
Jacqueline Nelson
67-85

Working with children checks—time to step back?
Clare Tilbury
87-100

Information about authors
101-102

Notes for contributors
103-106
Information about authors

Meredith Brown is a Research Officer at Monash University’s Faculty of Law.

Anna Eriksson is a Senior Lecturer in Criminology at Monash University, and Deputy Director of Monash University Criminal Justice Research Consortium. She is a current holder of an Australian Research Council Discovery Early Career Research Award on comparative penology.

Michael Gilding is Executive Dean of the Faculty of Business and Enterprise and Professor of Sociology at Swinburne University of Technology. His research interests include inheritance, wealth, family business and entrepreneurship.

Lee Glezos is a PhD student in the Faculty of Business and Enterprise at Swinburne University of Technology. His PhD thesis addresses the creation of a market for organic food in Australia.

Gaye Lansdell is an Associate Professor in the Law Faculty at Monash University and the Director of the Juris Doctor program in the postgraduate school. Her areas of expertise are criminology, criminal law and practice, and ethics and professional responsibility.

Kemran Mestan completed his PhD at Swinburne University of Technology. He is currently Senior Researcher at La Trobe University’s Access and Achievement Research Unit. His research interests relate to understanding barriers to social participation and developing policies to overcome them, particularly in relation to the interaction of welfare, education and employment policies.

Jacqueline Nelson (BLibStud, Sydney; MSc, Trinity College; PhD, UWS) is based in the School of Social Sciences and Psychology at the University of Western Sydney. Her research interests include the politics of racism and anti-racism, local anti-racism, bystander responses to racism, multiculturalism and ethnic discrimination in housing and employment.
Bernadette Saunders is a Senior Lecturer, Coordinator of the Master of Social Work (Qualifying), and Director of Operations in Social Work, Faculty of Medicine, Nursing and Health Sciences, at Monash University. Her areas of expertise are human rights—particularly children’s rights—and social disadvantage; law, ethics and social work practice.

Clare Tilbury is the Life Without Barriers Carol Peltola Research Chair at the School of Human Services and Social Work, Griffith University. Her research has a policy focus on child protection systems, outcomes, accountability, and performance measurement, with particular attention to children’s wellbeing and perspectives.